

Bal Harbour Shops Expansion Refined, Detailed in New Renders

Tuesday, June 16, 2015, by Sean McCaughan

Bal Harbour Shops has released new renderings of the mall's planned expansion, which would include a land swap with the Village of Bal Harbour that still has to be approved by voters, a new mall entrance, more generous public amenities, new boutiques, expansions to both existing department stores, and the addition of a Barneys New York. The Village Hall is no longer being relocated, but the Church by the Sea's land is still part of the deal (update below). Overall, the renderings give a much more detailed look at Bernard Zyscovich's design for the project, and make earlier renderings look like barn-sized shoeboxes covered in mountains of greenery.

UPDATE: Although current plans submitted show Village Hall remaining, negotiations for its replacement in a new location are still ongoing.
